

SAP consultant in 5 weeks

career offers a wider scope and has growth potential for professionals from varied backgrounds. Anyone who is willing to dedicate time can be an SAP certified consultant. One can become an SAP consultant within five weeks. The primary candidates for this certification are people who have domain experience, and are looking to gain more credibility.

Can you elaborate more on the association?

With this partnership, TimesPro and SAP India will offer SAP training programs and certification and upscale the employment abilities of the students. TimesPro will provide SAP training courses to both fresh graduates and experienced business professionals leading to certification, with an objective to fast track their career growth. The pan-India program will be delivered through best-in-class infrastructure, through either hands-on or e-learning mode from industry experts, as per participants' choice.

Does a SAP certified person have better prospects?

SAP has an enormous customer base of 345,000 spread across 190 countries, and so SAP professionals are highly sought after in IT consulting firms and MNCs. SAP's multi-industry approach enables SAP ERP professionals to have a wide career scope.

How do you plan to stay afloat in today's cut-throat competition amongst professional colleges?

Our vision is to ensure that we provide Indian youth with tailor-made and industry vetted courses that bridge the gap between the current formal education system and what the industry requirements are. So far, we have successfully placed over 95% of our students.
